

Esports Drill Down

By Justin Orellana

Esports In Recent Years

The world of Esports may be coming to a halt, over the years we are going to see if the amount of money people are making is going down or if people are overexaggerating. If the scene is dying, we will look further into recent years to see the change in amounts to see if any growth is appearing or if it has hit a plateau, which is showing that investors are starting to no longer want to put as much money in the scene.

- The world of esports is new and is being developed
- These past years the world of esports has been declining
- Decline is seen with the amount of money in the scene
- Decline is measured this way as it shows investors are still interested

Esports Visual

Earnings

